

Dear Parents/Carers,
Welcome back after the half term break, I hope you had a restful week.

The children have come back with a spring in their step as has the weather. Let's hope the sun continues to shine and the ground starts to dry out.

We are currently in the process of re-organising the home reading books for children who have come off Read Write Inc. As you can imagine this is taking a bit of time but I am hopeful that from Monday your child, if they have finished phonics, will be coming home with a colour banded book. Their fluency has been assessed and this has been correlated to a specific book band. The colour of the band will be indicated in their reading record for you to see. This re-organisation is going to ensure your child brings home a book that will enable them to be challenged and progress with the skill of reading. If you have any questions or queries, please do not hesitate to email me.

With books in mind, this coming Thursday is World Book day where we will be celebrating all things to do with books. We invite children to dress up as their favourite book character and if they wish, can bring in a book to swap with another child. Your child will be coming home with their £1 book voucher. You will see from the diary dates that once again we have the scholastic book fair coming and the vouchers can be redeemed as part of cost of a new book. This is a great opportunity to have a look (and purchase) some new books and also support the school with getting some new books for book corners and libraries.

Once again well done to 3 classes who have 100% attendance. Let's keep this momentum going and keep the whole school attendance above National.

Best Wishes
Sally Cook
